GOOD ROADS DRIVE OILED UP; HITTING ON SIX CYLINDERS

PLANS PERFECTED FOR AGGRESSIVE EDUCATIONAL MOVEMENT DURING THE NEXT TWO WEEKS.

MEET HERE MARCH 28

Speakers Covering County Emphasizing Target Points in Construction of Permanent Concrete Highways.

Daily meetings have been held during the week at Rock County Good Roads association headquarters in Janesville and plans perfected for an aggressive educational movement during the remaining two weeks, of the campaign.

From reports received at headquarters it is evident that the people are at last waking up to the fact that the automobile and motor truck have knocked the good road of yesterday into a bad road today, and that if public funds are to be applied in a business way, the trunk roads must be changed from gravel to concrete.

Another significant fact developed during the first week of the campaign was an apparent change in the minds of farmers who have been inclined to oppose the road program because they are not located on the main routes and hence could not receive direct benefit. They are impressed with Commissioner Moore's argument that in no other way than by building permanent trunk lines can there be any great development of other roads, because unless the trunk lines are built for permanence, funds will continue being used to no other purpose than the detriment of all roads in the county.

In order to hit the target with well directed argument in support of the bond issue, an outline of the permanent trunk road program was prepared by the Good Roads association. These points are:

That in effect taxes will not be increased, because the bonds, principal and interest will be repaid by the going to waste in continual repairs on gravel roads, a waste which can only be stopped by the construction of concrete roads.

Permanent stopping waste of funds by permanent construction on trunk roads more capital and time will be available for the upkeep of secondary roads, and that well maintained trunk roads, built so durably that practically no maintenance will be required, will give the farmer of the main road an undoubted direct benefit.

The Good Roads theatre in Janesville has been secured for a big mass meeting to be held on Friday, March 28, the closing week of the campaign.

William H. Dougherty, looking after the speaking end of the work and during the coming week it is expected that the campaign of education will be "hitting on six cylinders."

—RIDE ON CONCRETE— Credit Rating Bureau of Service to Merchants

Remarkable work which is of great help to local retail merchants is being accomplished by the credit rating bureau of the Chamber of Commerce.
Seven requests for ratings on new arrivals in the city were made yesterday and as soon as received will be placed on file for the use of merchants who desire the service.

When a stranger arrives in the city and registers at the Chamber of Commerce for a place in which to live, he fills out a blank form showing where he has resided previously. The credit bureau then obtains the ratings of these people from the commerce associations in their respective communities.

OUR SATURDAY NIGHT

Is it just a job that is yours to hold,
A task that offers you so much gold,
Just so much work that is yours to do,
With never a greater goal in view?
What do you see at your desk or loom?
On the spot, say, in life's busy room?
Is there a flickering lamp that burns
With a sickly light as the mill wheel turns
And the same old grind in the same old ways
With all the to-morrows like yesterdays?

Is it just a job, just a task to do,
So many pieces to build, a new?
So many figures to add, and then
Home for a while and back again?
Are you just a clerk in a grubby shop,
Pleasant when a customer calls to stop,
Finding no joy in the things you sell,
Steadily waiting the quitting bell?
Are your thoughts confined to the narrow space
And the dreariness of your present place?

Is it just a job, or a golden chance?
The first grim post of a fine advance,
The starting place on the road which leads To the better joys and the bigger deeds,
Do your thoughts go out to the days to be?
Can your eyes look over the drudgery
And see in the distance the splendid glow
Of the broader life that you, too, may know?
What is your view of your circumstance?
Is it just a job or a golden chance?

Most of the men in this country who have gone to the front, either in the industrial or commercial world, were boys who commenced life with simply a job. There was nothing peculiar about the job. It was like thousands of others at which boys were working, but there was something peculiar about the boys, and this peculiarity is suggestive by Mr. Guest in the little poem.

The small class of boys, who commenced to climb, and finally landed, carried into life a purpose, and attached to the first job, as well as to every other, was a vision, and this vision soon discovered that every job, however humble, has connected with it an opportunity, a chance for advancement, and so while work was faithfully performed, the mind never lost sight of the vision.

The complaint is common today, by men who have been passed in the race by more ambitious rivals, that while they have always had a job, opportunity passed them by, and they attribute failure to a lack of luck, but this is begging the question, because opportunity plays no favorites. It is waiting just around the corner for any man who will grasp it. It is the hand maid of destiny, ready to form an alliance with any and all comers.

There is only one class of workmen who are so color blind that they would not recognize an opportunity if it loomed up in the pathway ahead of them like a stone wall. They are the men whose loyalty to organized labor and the union is so strong that all else is forgotten. While many good things can be said in favor of organized labor, there are some things connected with it which are radically wrong, because they kill ambition and so handicap the individual that he becomes a machine, and while a machine may be perfect, it is never human. And the final destiny is the scrap heap. The man who goes through life as an automaton, with his eye on the clock, never lands anywhere near the front. The captains of industry are never taken from this class, a fact which is worth remembering.

Passing a twelve-story building in process of construction, a time ago in Chicago, at ten minutes of quitting time in the afternoon, it was noticed that the ladders were lined with men coming down. At five o'clock they were all assembled on the sidewalk, ready to start for home. Men with a job without a vision, with nothing ahead of them but a job. Nearby was a cigar factory employing some sixty men who commenced work anywhere from seven-thirty and nine-thirty in the morning. Asked about the late arrivals, the proprietor said: These are union men who can make all the cigars they are permitted to make in a day, in less than six hours. What kind of encouragement does that sort of a destiny offer to ambition.

The era of reconstruction, through which we are passing, is playing havoc with many theories, and disturbing all kinds of business. High priced times are always good times, because money is plenty and labor in active demand at good wages. The last panic which the country experienced was in 1893, when produce of all kinds was hardly worth marketing, and when work and not wages, was the chief concern in the labor world. Soup houses and bread lines, were the rule and not the exception, in all large cities, and Coxies Army marched across the western states to Washington, demanding work.

There is nothing cheap when there is no money to buy it with. It is easier to pay forty dollars for a suit when times are good and wages high, than to pay fifteen in panic years when work is scarce at any wage, and two men waiting for every vacant job, as is always the case in hard times. There will be no panic this year because money is too plentiful, and when we get our taxes paid and find out where we are at, business will be resumed at prices somewhere near normal, and a dollar an hour will cease to be the ruling price for skilled labor.

Some fifteen years ago a young man fresh from college decided to know something about the steel industry from the manufacturing end. So he called on the superintendent of one of the big steel mills at Cleveland, Ohio and applied for a job with the questions, "how long will it take me to learn the trade?" The man looked at him a little surprised and said, "Well, my boy if you want to take a wheel barrow out there in the yard, at a dollar a day, and make good you will be in shape to study a blast furnace at the end of seven years." The boy said, "All right. I'll be here in the morning for the wheel barrow." He made good step by step, and ten years later was made assistant to the superintendent, and placed in charge of a furnace with a capacity of four hundred and fifty tons a day. Last fall his opportunity came to him when he secured a plant in Kentucky over which he had entire charge, but sudden death cut short his promising career.

There are all kinds of jobs and all kinds of men attempting to fill them with greater or less success. The largest job, which this country has to offer just now is held by President Wilson. Many people think that he is filling it to perfection, while others claim that no one man is big enough to carry the burden of the Eastern and Western Hemisphere, at the same time, and do justice to both. Of course he has dismissed school on this continent for an indefinite period, which wouldn't be so bad if we were not all tied up in a knot for money. In the mean time the folks across the water have not been idle, and it will not be surprising if the President's Peace League of Nations was set aside until peace is declared. This should have been done two months ago, as peace is of first importance. A Peace-League should embrace all the nations of the world, including Germany and Austria, as well as all of the neutral nations. This can not be done until peace is declared.

The boys who are looking for a job, will do well to bear in mind that it isn't the job that makes the man. The job is simply a stepping stone, when purpose and ambition are behind it. There are no soft jobs in life worth the having. Success lies at the end of the row where intelligent, faithful, loyal service is planted and cultivated by hard work. The world is waiting for men with a vision and Janesville just now needs a lot of this kind of men. The town has been destitute of new blood for so many years that we are slow to believe that it is here knocking for admission, and no place for it to hang out. One job is to wake up to the situation and make the most of the opportunity which came to us without seeking. Shall we do it!

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

GETTING ON TO SPRING.
It's getting on to the spring again.
The robins soon will sing again.
The tulips and the daffodils.
Will bud and come to bloom;
The skies will soon be blue again.
The meadows look like new again.
And beautiful and lovely things
Will smile where now is gloom.

Men do not doubt that spring again
Will bring the birds to sing again;
Men do not view the leafless trees
Of winter in dismay.
Nor sigh, when comes the frost to them,
That every rose is lost to them.
They know that every sleeping plant Shall hear the call of May.

Men know the gentle sun again,
Shall bid the brook to run again;
They know the hollyhocks once more Shall blossom by the gate;
The blue shall find the skies again,
That every rose is lost to them.

The lily dead shall rise again,
And all the orchards come to bloom
If they will only wait.

Yet when to them come snow again
And bitter grief and woe again,
They bow their heads and wail aloud
That life's a hopeless thing.
Forgetting they shall rise again
Neath blue and happy skies again,
And come from death at God's command.

To all the joys of spring.

HUGH CAMPBELL WALLACE
Hugh Campbell Wallace, recently named United States ambassador to France, is a Missourian by birth. He was educated under private tutors in his birthplace, Lexington, Mo., and in 1881, when he was twenty-two years old, entered a public life, through appointment by President Cleveland, as receiver of public moneys for the state of Utah. He held that post for two years and then resigned. In 1891 he married Miss Mildred Fuller, daughter of the late Chief Justice Melville W. Fuller, of the United States supreme court. The year following his marriage Mr. Wallace was elected a member of the Democratic national committee, and in 1896 was re-elected, only to resign shortly afterward. Following his resignation, Mr. Wallace retired from public life and took only a passive interest in politics until in 1912 he entered the presidential campaign. A four-year interval of retirement came then until 1915, when he was chosen for the Democratic national committee. Mr. Wallace makes his home during the summer months in the bargain of Washington and for the remainder of the year lives in Washington, D. C. He is a member of the Union Country club of Tacoma and of the

Chiropractic and The X-Ray

Chiropractic is above all else a Progressive Science and as is true of all progressive movements, it employs the progressive ideas which will add to its effectiveness. The skilled Chiropractor realizes the necessity of in some manner determining conditions of the spine which could not be sensed by the use of palpation. Certain conditions are liable to occur which baffle even the most experienced Chiropractor and it is in these cases that the employment of the X-Ray as a verifier of the Chiropractor's analysis should be utilized. Consequently the science of Spino-graphy has been developed. This Science deals with the use of the X-Ray in Chiropractic. My office is equipped with a complete Spino-graphical apparatus and our patients thus have the opportunity of making assurance doubly sure.

Voice of the People

To the Editor:—
There seems to be some misunderstanding among the voters in regard to the proposed High School Bond issue. Many have the idea that they will have an opportunity to vote on the issue, which is not a fact, the call for the election is for the purpose of voting for the Bond issue for the purchase of a SITE. The only issue before the voters is the question, will we have a new high school or will the people of Janesville be obliged to send their children to the present overcrowded building.
A visit to that building will convince anyone of the necessity of larger and more commodious quarters.

Improved Lightship Bell

A new lightship bell, also has a bell, which is made to ring automatically by means of a highly ingenious device which utilizes the gas as it passes from the tanks to the lantern, to ac-tuate the bell clapper. The light is not interfered with in the slightest degree by the operation of the bell-striking device. It is only set in motion, however, in very foggy weather, when the light cannot be distinguished at any great distance.

Standard of Taste.

One of my fellow wage-slaves (relates Louie) is the proud possessor of an exceedingly noisy shirt—white, with wide orange and purple stripes,
if you will believe it. One evening, he was calling on some friends who have a five-year-old daughter. The youngster gazed wide-eyed at the screaming combination, then, rubbing her hand over the shirt front, inquired: "What kind of a flag is that?"

BOLSHEVIKI HAVE AMBITIOUS PLANS FOR THE FIGHTING SEASON OF 1919

Plans of the Bolshevik government of Russia for an extended campaign during 1919 have come into possession of the British government.
The Leninist Trotsky forces are reported to be well organized, and number upwards of 1,000,000 men. According to the information obtained, Minister of War Trotsky's campaign was outlined as follows:
1.—The Archangel front is to be one of three principal lines of advance aimed to drive out the American and allied forces.
2.—On the Murman and Finnish frontier a defensive campaign only is to be maintained.
3.—On the Baltic front they plan to overrun Estonia and Lithuania, occupying all the seaports. They have reached the coast at several points, but the native forces, aided by the allied fleets, have driven them from all the ports except Riga.
4.—The Bolsheviks have been driven out of Libau and Windau to the south.
5.—The Bolsheviks have overrun Ukraine and driven the anti-Bolsheviki and Cossacks across the Don river into Caucasia.
6.—General Denikine has held the Bolsheviks on the Don and defeated their plan to advance to the Caspian sea.
7.—The Siberian forces and the Czech-Slovak forces have stopped Trotsky's forces on the Perm front. They were badly defeated and driven away from Orenburg and Ekaterinburg, their objectives.
The shaded portion of the map shows the approximate territory in Russia controlled by the Red government.

LOOKING AROUND

LIFE GROWS DULL.
For the first time in over a week
Municipal court and the police station was quiet this morning. No arrests were made over night. City Clerk Victor E. Henning also reported things as unusually dull as did City Engineer Kerch and Treasurer
Muenchow.

CHEESE SHIPPED OUT.
A carload of Greek cheese was shipped to Chicago yesterday by the Universal Creamery company. The cheese was sold to wholesale dealers and will probably be sent to New York. The total weight of the cheese reached over 15,000 pounds. It was shipped in 116 kegs weighing 125 pounds. Peter Baves, manager of the factory stated this morning that it was the second carload shipped out and that business had increased wonderfully, so that orders were being turned down daily.

Five people wrote the civil service examination for railway mail clerk at the postoffice today.

BUSINESS IS RUSHING.
There were 19 telephone calls recorded at the Chamber of Commerce office yesterday and 29 visitors are listed.

CLUB TO GIVE DANCE.
Members of the Sunflower club will hold their next dance Wednesday evening at East Side Odd Fellows hall.

SHOP IN JANESVILLE.
Mrs. John Heffernan and daughter, Irene, Leyden, were shoppers in Janesville today.

POOR OLD DOG.
When a dog is sick in the summer time he can usually recover his health by eating grass but in winter he is not able to do this and has to be taken to a veterinarian. Physical Director W. P.
Craig's dog spent a restless night last night so he had to be given medical attention this morning. This accounts for Mr. Craig's late appearance at the Y. M. C. A. this morning.

ORDERED TO LOWER FLAG.
Santiago.—Crews of the interned German vessels in Chilean harbors, which are to be turned over to the United States, have been ordered by the minister protested but the order could not be revoked.

Shooting Into Space.
The question of whether it would ever be possible to shoot a projectile into space, that is to say entirely off the earth, has long been the subject of discussion. In a detailed scientific paper on the German long-ranged gun which bombarded Paris last spring, Major J. Maillard-Addison, writing in the Journal of the Royal Artillery, says the requisite velocity of such a gun is not so very much higher than what has already been achieved; viz., a muzzle velocity of a mile per second.
When we are able to increase this to five miles per second, the projectile, fired at a suitable angle, will travel around the earth as a grazing satellite, completing its orbit between 17 and 18 times daily. With a velocity of about seven miles a second, it will move off into space, never to return.

St. Patrick Carries Colors in Church Basketball

St. Patrick's basketball squad defeated the First Lutheran five last night in the first game of the church league contest by an overwhelming score of 70 to 10.

Two games are scheduled to be played at the Y. M. C. A. this evening. The Presbyterians will meet the Baptists, while the Methodists will try conclusions with the St. Mary's five.

The Lutheran five was completely outclassed by the Catholics who scored almost at will. Cassidy star forward for the Catholics, piled up 23 baskets besides dropping in several free throws. Kober at forward also counted several times. Vinay at center played a good game as did Kenning and Drew at guards. Anderson did most of the scoring for the Lutherans.

The lineup of the teams follows: St. Patrick's, Kober and Cassidy, forwards; Vinay, center; Kenning, Drew, Phinley and Ryan, guards. First Lutherans: Anderson and Kaufman, forwards; Garvin, center; Vehlman and Gestland, guards.

Huebel's Volleyball Team Wins Treats for Banquet

Albert Huebel's volleyball team completely upset the "dope" last night, by defeating Lovejoy's men in three straight games, thereby winning the championship of the league.

The losers will treat the winners to a banquet, to be served at the Y. M. C. A., Monday night.

In all three games Huebel's men scored 21 points, while the Lovejoys made 15, 16 and 17 points respectively.

The victory of Huebel came as a surprise to all, as his team had held the cellar position throughout most of the contest, while Lovejoy and Kahn were fighting it out for honors. Stanley Tallman's team had hard luck and finished up in fourth place, leaving Kahn's men third.

The number of games lost and won and the percentage follow:

The Coming World Ruler

By REV. B. B. SUTCLIFFE
Extension Department, Moody Bible Institute, Chicago

TEXT—The government shall be upon his shoulder.—Isa. 9:6.

The One mentioned in the text is none other than the coming Prince of Peace, the King of kings and the Lord of lords, Jesus Christ, who is to be the ruler of this world and who will reign as King. The ancient idea that a king was the patriarchal father, friend and guardian of his people pertains to this Coming King. There are four marks of his kingship.

1. He has absolute authority. There is no such thing as limited monarchy, much less democracy, about the kingship of this Coming One. He will be no mere figurehead, as some of the kings of our day. The second chapter of this prophet Isaiah declares he will judge between the nations. All international questions will in his day be referred to him and from his decisions there will be no appeal. This is in accord with the ancient idea of kingship, but with the difference that where other kings were subject to error and made mistakes there, will be no errors or mistakes in the exercise of authority by the Prince of Peace. Ruling in the supreme authority given him by God and ruling with the glory of God as the one motive of all his acts, there will come under this beneficent king the full blessedness on earth for which man has waited so long.

2.—He will have supreme power. There have been and there are today kings who have authority but lack the power to exercise it. This Coming One will have all power for the full and proper exercise of his authority. None will be able to turn him aside from his decrees, nor will any be able to make his decrees null and void. Even some who will be disposed to resent his authority will, because of his power, bow to his decrees. Ruling as he will, wholly for the glory of God, means that all selfish exercise of power will be done away, and those who would feather their own nests by oppression will find their occupation gone. This would cause war to be heard were it not that this Ruler has all power to enforce his decrees. As all his decrees are calculated to bring supreme blessing to all men it is little wonder that his coming is awaited by many with eagerness and delight.

3.—He will provide certain protection. The ancient king was charged with the guardianship of his people, who looked to him to guard them from their enemies. This Coming King will afford such protection for his own that none will make them afraid, but all will dwell in security and peace. In his day every man will dwell under his own vine and fig tree, no oppression of the weak will be found, and no unfair advantage whereby one may grow rich at the expense of another will be allowed throughout the world. Man will then have a chance to come to his full development, with no fear of sudden destruction of himself or of his plans. There will be protection from wars and rumors of wars, protection from the criminal and the lawless, and protection from all evil save only that which individual men and women will desire to carry within themselves. Certain protection will be afforded by the unlimited power and absolute authority of the Coming King against all the machinations of evil and the unrighteousness of men.

4.—He will bring full provision for people. The ancient king was looked to by his people to provide all necessary provision, and his people's needs were his sacred charge. Like a father he was supposed to provide for his own people as though they were his children. So this One who is coming will provide for his own all things required to make contentment the rule throughout the world. In his reign the waste places will bring forth, the wilderness will blossom as the rose and the dry lands will become fruitful fields. The cry of hunger will never be heard and famine will only be remembered as a nightmare of days gone by. With fullness of bread there will be the full knowledge of the Lord, for his knowledge will cover the earth as the waters cover the sea.

In the midst of all the strife and suffering of today the above sounds like some dream impossible of fulfillment. But the word of the Lord has declared it, and his word is settled forever in heaven. Every lot and every title of what he has written is sure of full realization, and the signs of the times give every encouragement that the coming of the Great King is not far off. In the midst of the distress of nations and the fear of what is coming on the earth, it is well to comfort our hearts with the assurance that in God's good time he will bring forth his king, who will give to all the tangled threads of life and all the chaotic conditions of the world a divine order and a blessed rule for all peoples.

ONLY MILADY'S SUMMER FROCKS, NEVER HER TEMPER, IS RUFFLED LIKE THIS

By ELOISE.

Surely no one will care how ruffled a lady gets providing she confines it to her dainty summer frocks and providing the effect is as alluring as it is here. It looks very much as if ruffles would be one of the favored trimmings of the 1919 summer girl. The winter frocks have shown many attractive frocks which use nothing but ruffles for trimming and it is the winter frocks which give us our first hint of what the summer ones will offer in fashion.

The slim girl will be glad to use ruffles on the scant skirt of the season for it will aid in giving graceful lines to her pencil-like silhouette. The dainty frock on the left is of pale pink organdie and the whimsical designer has made the many ruffles run up and down on the skirt and sleeves and around on the shawl collar. The hat is a soft little shape of chiffon with roses covering the crown.

The frock on the right is much more consistent in its use of ruffles. They all go the same way and they are of pink satin. And we don't know whether the lady is supercilious or not, but there are just thirteen ruffles on the skirt—count 'em. The picture hat worn with this rather elaborate summer frock is pink georgette with bands of pink ostrich feathers.

Sashes will probably be a popular feature of the summer frocks also and this year they will be large and full instead of merely small ties, as they were last year. Both of these frocks show samples of the new large bows at the back of the waist, and

up and down on the skirt and sleeves and around on the shawl collar. The hat is a soft little shape of chiffon with roses covering the crown.

The picture hat worn with this rather elaborate summer frock is pink georgette with bands of pink ostrich feathers.

Sashes will probably be a popular feature of the summer frocks also and this year they will be large and full instead of merely small ties, as they were last year. Both of these frocks show samples of the new large bows at the back of the waist, and up and down on the skirt and sleeves and around on the shawl collar. The hat is a soft little shape of chiffon with roses covering the crown.

The frock on the right is much more consistent in its use of ruffles. They all go the same way and they are of pink satin. And we don't know whether the lady is supercilious or not, but there are just thirteen ruffles on the skirt—count 'em. ## WOLVES OF THE SEA

By RANDALL FARISH

Copyright by A. C. McClurg &amp; Co.

I shall never know how long I remained thus. Yet this time could not have been great. As though awakened from sleep a faint consciousness returned. Then the sharp pain of my wounds, accentuated by the sting of salt water, brought me swift realization of where I was and the circumstances bringing me there. I had evidently lost considerable blood, yet this had already ceased to flow, and a very slight examination served to convince me that the knife slashes were none of them serious. My other injuries were merely bruises to add to my discomfort—the result of blows dealt me by Sanchez and Cochose, aggravated by the bearlike hug of the giant negro. Indeed, I awoke to the discovery that I was far from being a dead man; and, inspired by this knowledge, the various incidents of the night flashed swiftly back into my mind.

No gleam of light appeared in any direction; no sound echoed across the dark waste of water. It was clearly impossible for me to attempt any return to the wharf through the impenetrable black curtain which shut me in. What, then, could I do? What might I still hope to accomplish? Those fellows had swept the sloop clean, and had doubtless long ago scuttled it. They would suddenly find themselves leaderless, unguided. Would that suffice to stop them? Would the discovery of his body halt his followers—and send them rushing back to their boat, eager to get safely away? This did not seem likely. Estada knew of my boarding the sloop from the wharf, and would at once connect the fact of my being ashore with the killing of Sanchez. This would satisfy him there was no further danger. Besides, these were not men to flee in panic. Surely not with that ruffian Estada yet alive to lead them, and the knowledge that fifty thousand pounds was yonder in that unguarded house, with no one to protect the treasure but two old men asleep, and the women. The women!—Dorothy! What would become of her? Into whose hands would she fall in that foul division of spoils? Estada's? And I, afraid and helpless in this boat, what could I do?

CHAPTER IX.

A Swim to the Namur.

All was black, hopeless; with head buried in my hands I sat on a thwart, dazed. Before me, pleading, expressive of agonized despair, arose the sweet face of Dorothy Fairfax. No doubt by this time all was over—the dead body of Sanchez discovered, the projected attack on the house carried out, the two old men left behind, either dead or severely wounded, and the girl borne off a helpless prisoner. Ay, but this I knew; there was only one place to which the villains might flee with their booty—the Namur of Rotterdam. Only on those decks and well at sea would they be safe or able to enjoy their spoils. The thought came to me in sudden revelation—why not? Was not here a chance even yet to foil them? With Sanchez dead no man aboard that pirate craft could recognize me. I felt assured of this. I had fought the giant negro in the dark; he could not, during that fierce encounter, have distinguished my features any more clearly than I had his own. There was no one else to fear. If only I might once succeed in getting safely aboard, slightly disguised, perhaps, and mingle unnoticed among

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Get Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel. Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers. Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative.

No gripping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force you to unnatural action.

If you have a "black brown mouth"—a bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver and are constipated, you'll find quick, sure and only pleasant results from one or two little Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime. Thousands take one or two every night just to keep right. Try them. 10c and 25c per box. All druggists.

DON'T SUFFER WITH NEURALGIA

Use Soothing Musterole

When those sharp pains go shooting through your head, when your skull seems as if it would split, just rub a little Musterole on your temples and neck. It draws out the inflammation, soothes away the pain, usually giving quick relief. Musterole is a clean, white ointment, made with oil of mustard. Better than a mustard plaster and does not blister. Many doctors and nurses frankly recommend Musterole for sore throat, bronchitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of the back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frost-bites—colds of the chest (it often prevents pneumonia). It is always dependable. 30c and 60c jars; hospital size $2.50.

PETEY DINK—IT'S HARD WORK TO CATCH UP ON YOUR SLEEP.

The crew, the chances were not one for me to pass undetected. Such ships carried large crews and were constantly changing in personnel. A strange face appearing among them need not arouse undue suspicion. And I felt convinced I could locate the Namur. But could I hope to attain the ship in advance of the returning party of raiders? God helping me, I would try! My brain throbbled with fresh resolution—the call to action.

There were oars in the boat. I shipped the useless rudder inboard and chose my course from the stars. My boat had drifted considerably farther out into the bay than I had supposed, and it required a good half hour of steady toil at the oars before I sighted ahead of me the darker outlines of the shore. At first I could identify nothing, but finally there suddenly arose, clearly defined, the gaunt limbs of a dead tree, bearing a faint resemblance to a gigantic cross, that had been pointed out on the sloop. This peculiar mark was at the extremity of the first headland lying north of the point itself, and consequently a straight course across the bay would land me within five hundred yards of where the Namur had last been at anchor.

To a degree my immediate plan of action had been definitely mapped out within my own mind while toiling at the oars. I would beach my dory and strike out on foot directly across the narrow neck of land. The Namur was not so far out from shore as to make swimming to her a dangerous feat, and I could approach and board her with far less chance of discovery in that manner than by the use of a boat. The greater danger would come after I had attained the deck, wet to the skin. The sharp bow of the dory ran up on the soft sand of the beach, and I stepped ashore.

Then there came to me the first real consciousness of the reckless nature of this adventure. As I faced them the probabilities there scarcely seemed one chance in a hundred. And yet I must admit there was the one chance; and in no other action could I perceive even that much encouragement.

Dorothy Fairfax was already in the hands of these men, then my only opportunity for serving her lay in my being close at hand. No alternative presented itself; no other effort could be effective. It was already too late to attempt the organization of a rescue party. No, the only choice left was for me either to accompany the girl or else abandon her entirely to her captors. I must either face the possibility of discovery and capture, which as surely meant torture and death, or otherwise play the coward and remain inactively behind. So I drove the temptation to falter away and strode on up the bank into the black shadow of the trees.

Devising Some Means for Attaining the Deck.

showing aboard, yet apparently anchored in the same position as when we had swept past the previous afternoon. I waded straight out through the lines of surf, until all excepting the head became completely submerged. If I were to reach the bark at all this was the one opportunity. I stood there, resisting the undertow tugging at my limbs and barely able to retain my footing, intent upon my purpose. Full strength had come back to my muscles and my head was again clear. With strong, silent stroke I swam forward, directly breasting the force of the incoming sea, yet making fair progress. Some unconsidered current must have swept me to the right, for, when the outlines of the bark again became dimly visible through the night I found myself well to starboard of the vessel. Stroking well under water and with only my eyes exposed above the surface, I changed my course to the left and slowly and cautiously drew in toward the starboard bow. A few moments later, unperceived from above, and protected from observation by the bulge of the overhang and density of the shadow, my hands clung to the anchor hawser, my mind busy in devising some means for attaining the deck.

CHAPTER X.

On the Deck of the Namur. It was here that fortune favored me, strengthening my decision and yielding a fresh courage to persevere. Forking out directly over where I clung desperately to the wet hawser, my eyes were able to trace the bowsprit, the rather loosely furled up jib flapping ragged edges in the gusts of wind. Suddenly, as I stared upward, I became aware that two men were working their way out along the footropes, and, as they reached a point almost directly over my head, became busily engaged in tightening the gaskets to better secure the loosening sail. The foot of one slipped, and he hung dangling, giving vent to a stiff English oath before he succeeded in hauling himself back to safety. The other indulged in a chuckling laugh, yet he was careful not to speak loudly. "Had one drink too many, Tom?" he asked. "That will pay yer fer flinshin' the bottle an' never givin' me another swag."

"You, h—! Yer hed the fust ov it. Thar's no sorter luck yer don't git yer fair share of, Bill Haines—trust yer fer that. What I ain't got straight yet is whar the stuff cum from so easy."

"That was part of the luck, Tom! Did yer git eyes on that new feller Manuel Estevean brought back with him in the boat?"

"The one you and Jose carried aboard?"

"He's the lad. Thar wa'n't nuthin' the matter with the cove, 'cept he was dead drunk. We was waitin' on the beach fer Estevean, an' three fellers he hed taken along with him inter town ter cum back—the nigger, Jose an' me—when this yere chap hove 'longside. He never hailed us, ner nuthin'; just cum over into the boat, an' lay down. I shook him, an' kicked him, but it wa'n't no use; so we just left him lie thar fer Manuel ter say whut wuz ter be done with him. Only Jose he went through his pockets an' found three bottles of rum. We took a few drinks an' hid whut wuz left in the boat locker."

"So thet's how yer got it! Who wuz the party?"

"That's more'n I'll ever tell yer. I never got no sight of him, 'cept in the dark. 'Bout all I know is he wuz white, an' likely a sailor. Enyhow, when Manuel got back he told us to haul the lad forrard out of the way, an' fetch him along. So we pulled out with the feller cuddled up in the bow."

DOESN'T NEED ANY LAXATIVES NOW

Mr. Becker Says Life Is a Joy, Without Constipation or Stomach Trouble.

"I had catarrh of the stomach and head for three years. My stomach was so bad that every time I ate anything sweet, such as fruit or pastry, the burning hot water would run out of my mouth. I had to take a laxative every night."

"Since taking Milk's Emulsion, my bowels move regularly. I have taken ten bottles and have gained 104 pounds. All my friends remark how fine I am looking, and it seems a pleasure to live again, without stomach trouble."—Bert Becker, Miami, Ohio.

Physicians usually make slaves out of their users, and weaken the bowels instead of correcting them. Stomach trouble in many cases is directly due to constipation.

Milk's Emulsion is a pleasant, nutritive food and a corrective medicine. It restores healthy, natural bowel action, doing away with all need for pills and physics. It promotes appetite and quickly puts the digestive organs in shape to assimilate food. As a builder of flesh and strength, Milk's Emulsion is strongly recommended to run-down nervous people, and it has produced amazing results in many cases of asthma, chronic bronchitis and servile of the lungs. Chronic stomach trouble and constipation are promptly relieved—usually in one day.

This is the only solid emulsion made, and so palatable that it is eaten with a spoon like ice cream. A truly wonderful medicine for weak, sickly children.

No matter how severe your case, you are urged to try Milk's Emulsion under this guarantee:—Take six bottles home with you, use it according to directions and if not satisfied with the results, your money will be promptly refunded. Price 60c and $1.20 per bottle. The Milk Emulsion Co., Terre Haute, Ind. Sold and guaranteed by J. P. Baker.

How The Electric Generator Works

THE FOLLOWING IS A BRIEF EXPLANATION of how the electrical generator produces its current and how this current is regulated to a nearly constant value, despite variations in engine speed. The generator is merely a small dynamo, with a wire wound, rotating part (the armature), having a commutator at one end, upon which bear two brushes that collect the current generated. Encircling the armature is a stationary, wire wound, soft iron frame, the inward projections of which (the pole pieces) are located very close to the armature. When this field frame is magnetized and the armature is rotated, current is generated in the latter. The current is magnetized by current passing through the wire coils about it, which current is derived from the armature. The principal magnetizing coil is the fine wire shunt-coil; from one main brush to the other around the field frame. The faster the engine turns the armature, the more current passes through this and the more this current is increased the stronger becomes the field magnetism and the electrical pressure (voltage) supplied by the generator. If this shunt coil only were allowed to act uninterruptedly, the current sent to the battery would increase with engine speed, so that in very fast driving, the charging current would become so great as to prove destructive to the battery and possibly to burn out the lights and perhaps the generator itself. The situation is that the current supplied by the generator increases not only with increasing engine speed, but also with increasing magnetism itself due to higher speed with these undesirable results, which must be checked. Since it is hardly practicable to keep the generator speed constant, it is necessary to diminish the magnetizing effect of the shunt coil very greatly as speed increases and this is done by arranging that the shunt coil shall act, at full power, a less part of the time as the speed increases. To effect this, a magnetic relay, under control of the current sent to the battery, is arranged to introduce into the shunt field circuit a resistance, whenever the battery current becomes excessive, weakening the magnetism and to withdraw this resistance when the charging current becomes too small. The higher the speed, the more of the time the magnetism is kept weak and the current is thus kept substantially constant. This is only one of the ways of regulating generator output. Others will be referred to later.

RUNNING STARTER AND LIGHTS WITHOUT GENERATOR

L. writes: The electric generator on my car they tell me must be sent to the factory for re-winding and the job will require several weeks. Please advise me if it is possible to keep the starter and lights working from the battery, while the generator is out of service.

Answer: You can have the battery charged from an external source of current at night or whenever the car is not in use or the battery may be removed and left at the charging station. A test of the electrolyte indicates that it is near discharge, and the charging station will furnish you a fully charged battery to put in its place, for the use of which a moderate amount of battery acid will be required. You will be able to get along very comfortably, especially if you use the starter and lights rather moderately. By cranking the battery for hand, relying upon the battery for light and ignition only, a single battery charge will last you quite a long time. If you charge your battery yourself, you will need a roomy place, a place away from which every motorist may well own.

Questions of general interest to motorists will be answered in this column, space permitting. Address Albert L. Clough, care of this office.

Boys and Girls Delighted With New Pets Given Them by County; Love At First Sight; Pigs Are Happy

(BY GEORGE KALVELAGE.)

"Isn't she a dandy, pa?" one bright-eyed lad asked his father as he gazed with pride at his pure bred Duroc sow when the distribution of members of the Rock County Pig club was made at the fair grounds Wednesday. "I want to raise this pig myself. I want to feed her, keep her clean and everything. I don't want you to help me at all, pa," the youngster said earnestly. "All right," replied his father.

It was a case of love at first sight when one little girl saw the pure bred Poland China sow which she was to receive. Petting and scratching the animal's back she soon gained her friendship, with the result that the 250-pound gilt sank to the ground and nestled there like a dog or cat that loves its pet.

This is a specimen of the spirit in which 60 wide-awake boys and girls in the county are entering upon the pig raising contest which has just begun. It is probably the greatest forward movement in the production of good swine that has ever been made in Rock county. Parents are permitting their children to enter the contest fully aware of the importance of it. They know that the farm boy of today is to be the successful farmer of tomorrow. In the raising of good stock the most important item is to have pure bred animals and that is the one outstanding feature of the county pig club. The members of the club are distributed among the members is a pure bred and is due to farrow within a few weeks.

Credit to County Agent. County Agent E. E. Anderson has gone to great trouble during the last few weeks to gather enough high quality pure breeds to supply every member of the club. In his hands are 60 gilts, 60 boars, and 60 sows, all of which he has distributed among the members of the club.

These Boys Were Lucky. The sows were distributed through the drawing of numbers. Alvin and Stanley Anderson, two Footville boys, took a great fancy to two Poland

China gilts in one pen. "Look! I wish we could get those two," said one of them. "So do I," the other said. The odd part of the whole thing was that when the 60 numbers were drawn each of the two boys drew a number corresponding to the two pigs which they had been admiring. It is a pretty safe bet that these two boys will figure in with the prize winners at the Janesville fair.

Boys Can Be Handsome. There are two little crippled boys in the club. Both are lovers of dumb animals and the care which they will give to their pigs will doubtless be as great as any pig ever received—and some of them are treated like kings. Animals' back she soon gained her friendship, with the result that the 250-pound gilt sank to the ground and nestled there like a dog or cat that loves its pet.

ROSENBERY FAVORED BY EQUITY OFFICIALS

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Madison, March 15.—J. N. Tittle, more president of the American Society of Equity issued a statement today in favor of the judicial candidacy of Justice M. B. Rosenberry for re-election.

"I have known Judge Rosenberry of the supreme court for several years," says the Tittle statement. "I met him in Wausau in connection with his efforts there in behalf of the Farmers' Cooperative Packing company, of which he was president, and in behalf of the Equity society, and his noted fair and helpful attitude in behalf of the farmers whom he represented. After years' experience on the supreme court bench the people elected him by a large majority. He is liberal, open-minded and fair, both as a judge and as a man. His record is clean. He is a farmer's son brought up in the farm atmosphere, and is entitled to the support of every farmer who has any ambition for his own boy. For the reasons stated, I heartily endorse him for re-election." This statement is also signed by J. O. Parrish, secretary of the board of directors of the American Society of Equity; by J. H. Carnahan, vice-president and state organizer of the American Society of Equity; and by James Clemens, a member of the executive board of the society.
